

Prospectus Questions

One Sentence Project Summary * [No more than 50 words.]

What is the problem your project seeks to address?* [No more than 150 words.]

What is the PRIMARY approach you plan to take to address this problem? (We recognize that many successful projects will rely on several different approaches; this question seeks to understand what you envision as the primary, albeit not necessarily only, tactic you will emphasize.)*

- Litigation
- Direct representation
- Movement lawyering/community organizing
- Policy advocacy
- Research
- Coalition building
- Other (please state below)

What is your proposal for how to address this problem? If you'll be taking multiple approaches to tackling the problem (e.g., Litigation, Direct Representation, Policy advocacy, Coalition building, etc.) please indicate a rough estimate of the proportion of time spent on each approach over the course of your project.)* (Succinct bullet points are fine; no more than 150 words.)

What is your Theory of Change for your project? In other words, how, specifically, will the work you propose to do lead to the change you seek to make?)* Refer to the website for information and guidance on how to draft a "Theory of Change" in order to best answer this question. *(Succinct bullet points are fine; no more than 150 words.)

How does your project aim at broad scale impact? How broad? (E.g. how many people might potentially be affected, indirectly and/or directly? Our goal is to understand if your project has the ultimate potential to positively impact tens of people, hundreds of people, thousands of people, tens of thousands of people, millions of people, etc.) * (Succinct bullet points are fine; no more than 100 words.)

A listening tour that includes a wide range of input is vital to developing your proposal and ensuring that your work is not duplicative or counterproductive, and these initial contacts may well turn into collaborations and partnerships during your fellowship. Note it is the candidates' responsibility to initiate and carry out these conversations.

- List who you have contacted (lawyers and nonlawyers) as part of developing your project idea and/or identifying possible host organizations.*

- List who you would LIKE to speak with in the future as part of continuing to develop your project idea and/or identifying possible host organizations.*
